

HIGHWAYMAN GRABS VICTIM BY THROAT; CAUGHT IN CHASE

Beaten, Kicked and Robbed of Rent Money, Bartender
Pursues Fugitive.

Morris Fingerman, a bartender of No. 114 Avenue B, was passing through East Thirtieth street early to-day when a bulky shadow emerged from the mist and he was seized by the throat in the grip of a huge hand. While the great fist lifted Fingerman off his feet and held him dangling another fist swung through the air and landed in his face, breaking off three teeth and causing him to see stars.

Before Fingerman began to actually realize what was happening to him he was borne down into the cellar of No. 114 East Thirtieth street, thrown upon the cement floor and kicked with a boot that felt like a pile driver. Then he felt the two fists that had choked and battered him feeling through his pockets. Just thirty cents reposed in the bartender's pockets, but in a little bag hanging by a cord about his neck was his rent money—$15. When the robber counted out the total of thirty cents he cursed in English and Polish, then began operations again with the tremendous boot. Fearing that he would be kicked to death Fingerman confessed to the possession of the $15. The robber grabbed it, then seized Fingerman by the throat and banged his head against the wall. The huge footed fiend when his victim appeared to be unconscious.

Fingerman is made of pretty stern fibre, however, and had only feigned unconsciousness. The robber had scarcely reached the street below when Fingerman started in pursuit. The fugitive turned upon his pursuer at the corner of Third avenue and Thirtieth street, and seized him again by the throat and was hammering him in the face with his fist when Detective Pfister and Lieberman came along.

The fugitive fought the detectives until he himself had been thoroughly manacled with pistol butts and bluffs. Then he was hustled along the pavement toward the Union Market station. The detectives had not gone far when a little boy ran up and said he had seen the prisoner throw a bottle into an ash barrel. Detective Pfister got the bottle, which contained two ounces of hydrochloric acid, poison enough to kill fourteen men.

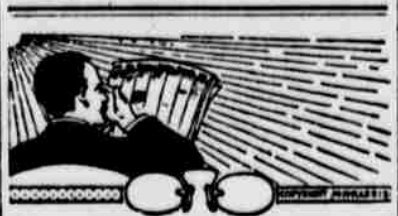

At Police Headquarters the footprint was identified as Joseph Polanski, who in November, 1907, had been sentenced to serve seven years in the New Jersey State penitentiary at Trenton for horse stealing.

"BELLS OF SHANDON" FOR CORKMEN'S FESTIVAL.

Far-Famed Chimes to Be Reproduced by O'Grady, the Noted Musician.

"Rebel Cork" will have its night next Saturday in Sulzer's Harlem River Park when the men of the biggest county in Ireland will turn out for their autumn night's festival. The Cork Mutual Aid Society when it starts to do things does them up with bells on. They have Bayne's famous 835-ninth Regiment band to furnish the music for the Gaelic and American dancing and there will be some dancing and singing, too, according to John P. Hayes, who introduced the "Lilt of the River Lee" to this country. The Lee, famed for its romantic beauty and its sturdy oarsmen, to say nothing of its expert salmon poachers, will have thousands of the wives, sweethearts, daughters and mothers who roamed its classic banks among those who will be there on Saturday night. An added attraction will be a reproduction of the chimes of the far-famed "Bells of Shandon" by O'Grady, who rang out the music of Father Freut's great melody for many years to please the ears of the visiting Americans in Cork's own city.

The other officers of the celebration are Jeremiah Mullane, Vice-President; James Fox, Corresponding Secretary; William J. Ryder, Recording Secretary; Thomas Walsh, Financial Secretary; Lawrence Crowley, Treasurer; John Hayes, Guard, and William Condon, John Flynn, L. Clancy, Thomas Kirk and T. J. Murphy, Directors.

Announcing the Arrival of Women's Smart Autumn Coats

Exhibiting Every Smart Novel Fabric, Line and Trimming Ordained by the Best Authorities

Especially notable in design of collars, sleeves and general lines. Some original imported models of which we have no duplicates and many modifications and adaptations, to meet the demands of American taste.

Materials have never been so sumptuous and beautiful. The Oriental styles and fabrics, whose impulse is felt in all autumn garments, predominate in the wraps.

Elegance and richness have reached their climax in these brocaded velvets, deep-piled plush with tapestry linings, moire silk and velvet combinations, velour cloth and dainty, light-colored velvets for evening wear.

There are, besides the handsome new Zibeline, sturdy tweeds for steamer and auto wear, double-faced cloth and the always good-looking and practical broadcloths and the smart wide-wale serge.

Prices range from $14.75 to $79.50

For the Woman Who Finds It Hard to Be Fitted.

We call special attention to a few models made for us after our own designs, in the proper hip proportions, which we carry in the "between" sizes. We are able to fit the most difficult figure. Sizes up to 53 bust-measure. Materials include $17.50 $24.75 broadcloth and wide-wale serge; prices are.
